Shots Fired at White House Correspondents Dinner While Trump Present

President Donald Trump was rushed OUT of the White House Correspondent's Dinner at the Washington, DC Hilton Hotel, after at least FIVE gunshots rang-out from an entry foyer outside the Ballroom where the Dinner was taking place.

Conflicting reports say one person is "in custody" while other reports initially claimed "the shooter is dead." Still no clarity on this point as of 11:20 PM EDT.

According to Witnesses, a man tried to run past the Magnetometer Check point, drew a weapon and fired, hitting a Secret Service Agent. The Agent and/or other nearby Agents, returned fire.

Video from inside the nearby Ballroom reveals the SOUND of one larger-caliber shot, followed by the SOUNDS of at least four smaller Caliber shots. Seconds after those sounds are heard, both Uniformed and plain clothes law enforcement officers rushed around President Trump and quickly escorted him off the stage.

According to various reports, the shooter is a 31-year-old male, possibly from California. No other details available at this time (11:25 PM EDT) but the President, Vice-President, Speaker of the House, and other high-ranking officials are ALL OK. No injuries to those people.

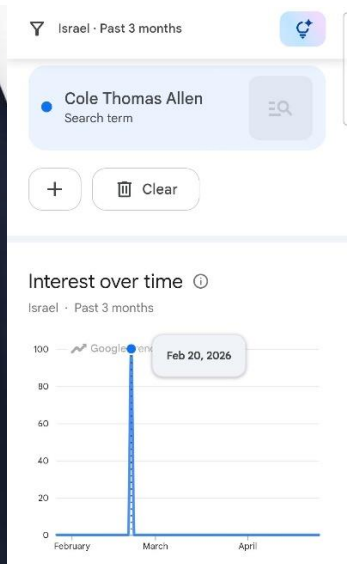
Shooter at White House Correspondent's Dinner Previously Wore IDF Sweatshirt

The shooter at last night's White House Correspondent's Dinner, identified as Cole Tomas Allen, 31, of Torrance, CA, previously uploaded a picture to Instagram showing himself wearing an Israeli Defense Force sweatshirt. A look at the logo:

Strangely, Google searches FROM INSIDE ISRAEL for the name "Cole Thomas Allen" spiked back in February of this year.



So if Trump was perceived as interfering with Israel's plans for Iran before the whole conflict resumed on February 28, did Israel decide, back on February 6, to kill Trump?
